Nolan Mar provides comprehensive and cost-effective port security solutions to the petroleum industry. Our background in security not only includes companies such as ConocoPhillips but also governmental leaders in security like Army, Air Force, Department of Defense, and Department of Homeland Security.

Our team has the expertise and contacts to proactively advise and represent you in your governmental relations as well as assist you to develop and implement a global security strategy.

- Our advisory services counsel you about possible legislative and regulatory changes and assist you with government outreach.
- Our grants services assist you to identify, apply, and manage reporting for governmental grant monies for port security solutions.
- We assist you to place port security in the broader context of the entire organization, developing crisis management and emergency response solutions—including physical and IT security aspects.

Our team possesses the experience and the tools to provide a comprehensive security program compliant with industry regulations and standards, such as the Maritime Transportation Security Act (MTSA), International Ship and Port Facility Security (ISPS) Code, and Hazardous Materials Transportation Security regulations (49 CFR 172) as well as the stringent American Petroleum Institute (API) Security Guidelines.

- Our audit services evaluate the status of security program compliance, such as Port Facility Security Audits.
- Our assessment services accurately identify threats, vulnerabilities, and consequences, such as Security Vulnerability Assessments.
- Our plan development services prepare compliant security plans, such as Site Specific Security Plans.
- Our training services provide education and exercises to ensure effective implementation and to meet regulatory compliance, such as Port Facility Security Officer Training.

Our services are complementary. Through our advisory and grant services, we can assist you to develop and implement global security strategies and more proactively manage the regulatory environment. Through our audit, assessment, plan development, and training services, we can assist you to enact your security strategy as effective policy at each of your facilities.
